HISTORY.

PROFESSOR TURNER AND DR. HASKINS.

The method of instruction aims to cultivate the habit of going to the original sources of information in historical study. Students are encouraged to follow out independent lines of investigation, and arrangements have been made by which students so engaged have a seminar room in the library of the State Historical Society, a library of 14,000 books and pamphlets, which in American history has no rival west of the Alleghany mountains.

Students who wish to make a specialty of history should acquire a reading knowledge of French and German as early in their course as practicable.

Subcourse I, Dynastic and Territorial History. The topical method is pursued, with the assistance of historical maps and charts and books of reference. The following books are used: Allen's History Topics, Lib-berton's Historical Atlas, Myers & Allen's Outlines of Ancient History, Myers' Outlines of Medieval and Modern History. Three times a week three terms. (Dr. Haskins.)

Required of Freshmen in the English Course.

Subcourse II, English History. The instruction is given by lectures in connection with class work in Gardiner's Student's History of England and the preparation of essays on assigned subjects. Twice a week during the fall term. (Dr. Haskins.)

Required of Freshmen in the English Course.

Subcourse III, General History of the United States. Allen's Topical in connection with lectures and text-books. Twice a week in the winter and spring terms. (Prof. Turner.)

Required of Freshmen in the English Course.

Subcourse IV, General History. 1. For 1801-1892: fall term, primitive, oriental and Greek history; winter term, Roman history; spring term, medieval history. Text-books: Keary's Dawn of History, Myers Eastern Nations and Greece, Oman's Greece, Allen's Rome, Duruy's Middle Ages. (Dr. Haskins.) 2. For 1892-1893: fall term, the Renaissance; winter term, the Reformation; spring term, the Eighteenth Century.

The method of study is by topics, lectures and text-books. In this subcourse attention is given to economic and social conditions as well as to the field covered by subcourse I. Three times a week through the year, but may be elected by separate terms.

Elective.

Subcourse V, History of the Nineteenth Century. The method of study is by lectures and text-book during the fall and winter terms, and a topical review with special reference to present conditions in the spring term. Text-books: Müller's Political History of Recent Times, Ely's French and German Socialism, Chisholm's Shorter Commercial Geography. Three times a week through the year. Those electing the study must begin in the fall term. (Prof. Turner.)

Elective.

Subcourse VI, Constitutional and Political History of the United States.
The subject is studied by the seminary method, from the original authorities, together with required readings in standard histories. Particular attention is given to the growth of American nationality, and of state and local institutions, and to the development of the constitution by interpretation and by usage. Five times a week through the year.

Elective for Juniors and Seniors.

Subcourse VII, History of Institutions. Fall term, ancient institutions; winter term, medieval institutions; spring term, modern institutions. This subcourse consists of lectures on the institutional history the principal continental states, supplemented by assigned readings and exercises in the interpretation of original authorities. Three times a week through the year. (Dr. Haskins)

Elective for students who have had a suitable preparation.

Subcourse VIII, History of Society. In the fall term, primitive soci-ty and classical civilization. In the winter term, modern civilization.
The method is by lectures and required readings. Twice a week in the fall and winter term. (Prof. Turner.)

Elective for students who have had a suitable preparation.

Subcourse IX, English Constitutional History. Lectures, text-books, topics and required readings. Twice a week for the year. (Dr. Haskins.)

Elective. May be substituted by English Juniors for subcourse II under
"V"es.
Subcourse X, Advanced English History. This subcourse is devoted to the study of English history since 1688, with special reference to economic history and the history of political parties. The method of study is by assigned readings, oral reports and essays involving the use of original authorities. Twice a week during the winter term. (Dr. Haskins.) Elective for students who had subcourse II or an equivalent.

Subcourse XI, Seminary. The work ranks as a two-fifths study and is open to qualified students who desire to do original investigation. The seminary meets once a week in its rooms at the State Historical Society Library. (Prof. Turner and Dr. Haskins.)

GREEK.

PROFESSOR KERR AND PROFESSOR WILLIAMS.

Subcourse I, Grammar, Prose Composition, Homer. Designed for students who desire to begin the Greek language, or to review its fundamental principles; especially arranged to meet the wants of Ancient Classical Freshmen who enter the University with advanced standing in other studies, but with inadequate preparation in Greek. It embraces a study of Goodwin's Greek Grammar, Greek Composition and three books of Homer's Iliad. Five exercises a week one year. (Prof. Kerr.)

Open to first and second year special students and to undergraduates in any of the regular courses in which Greek is either elective or required.

Subcourse II, Xenophon's Anabasis, Translation. Special drill in writing paradigms, and oral exercises in Greek syntax. This can be taken with or independently of subcourse I. Adapted, as I, for beginners, or for those who have some knowledge of the language but wish to make a thorough review of the essentials of Attic prose. It includes the study of three books of the Anabasis. Special attention given to the analysis of the text, and to the geographical and historical references. Five times a week for one year. (Prof. Williams.) Elective.

Subcourse III, Lysias. Five orations of Lysias, two books of Homer's Odyssey, Sidgwick's Greek Prose Composition, five times a week during the fall and winter terms. (Prof. Kerr.) Required of Freshmen in the Ancient Classical Course.

Subcourse IV, Homer's Odyssey. Two books; three times a week, spring term. (Prof. Williams.) Required of Freshmen in the Ancient Classical Course.

Subcourse V, Herodotus, Lyric Poets. Book VII of Herodotus, both in prepared lessons and at sight. Selections from the Lyric Poets. Twice a week, fall term; once a week, winter term; five times a week, spring term. (Prof. Kerr.)

Required of Sophomores of the Ancient Classical Course.

Subcourse VI, Demosthenes, Euripides. The Olynthiacs of Demosthenes, the Medea of Euripides. Three times a week, full term; four times a week, winter term. (Prof. Williams.) Required of Sophomores of the Ancient Classical Course.

Subcourse VII, Plato's Apology, Crito, Phaedo and Protagoras. This course is changed every year. Twice a week, fall term; three times a week, winter and spring terms. (Prof. Kerr.) Elective for students who have completed the required Greek of the Freshman and Sophomore years.

Subcourse VIII, Derivation of Technical Terms. Practice in the inflection and formation of words and in elementary composition. Designed to aid students of other departments in the mastery of technical terms of Greek derivation. One-fifth study, winter and spring terms. (Prof. Kerr.)

Elective.

Elective.

Subcourse X, Greek Seminary. Textual criticism and interpretation of the Bacchantes of Euripides. Papers upon the antiquities, mythology and literature of the play. Once a week during the year. (Prof. Kerr.)

Subcourses III, IV, V and VI are required of candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Arts; elective for other students.

LATIN.

PROFESSOR BENNETT AND MISS CORNELIUS.

Subcourse I, Cicero, Vergil. Cicero's Orations (four), Vergil's Aeneid (six books), Latin Composition; five exercises a week during the year. (Miss Cornelius.) Required of members of the Greek Class; elective for freshmen of suitable preparation in the English Course.
