History

History, the written memory of mankind, is the story and interpretation of man's experiences and achievements in the development of states and institutions, law and order, economic and social interests, religions, learning, literature, and the arts. Itself a product and an essential part of civilization, history is indispensable to the education of civilized men and women in their ideals and traditions. History is an important aid to the study of related subjects, notably the humanities (languages and literatures, philosophy, music, and art) and the social studies (law, sociology and anthropology, economics, cultural and historical geography, the history of science, political science, international relations, and psychology).

The Department of History offers courses for either a general knowledge of the history of civilization or a special knowledge of the history of particular topics and limited periods. Students may major in History for historical knowledge, teaching, research, or state service.

Major in History: A minimum of 30 and no more than 40 credits as follows:

1. At least 12 credits of European History, 6 of which must be taken in History 1, 2, 3, 5, and 10. This requirement must include some Ancient or Medieval History. History 5a counts as Medieval History. L.L.S. 12 (3 credits) and 22 (4 credits) are accepted as equivalent to History 1 and 2.

2. Six credits in American History.

3. At least 15 credits in advanced history courses (numbered 100-199), taken in residence at The University of Wisconsin. Advanced courses taken under 1. and 2. above count toward these 15 credits.

Major in the History of Culture. A student may choose to major in the History of Culture to emphasize the cultural aspects of historical development. He must meet the requirements outlined above under 1. and 2., and offer 12 credits in advanced courses in history, chosen so as to cover a logical segment of European or American cultural history. In addition, in consultation with his adviser, he must choose at least 9 credits in advanced courses in related departments in humanities or social studies...
Major in Ibero-American Studies. (See page 82.)

Joint Major in History and History of Science. The joint major demands 18 credits in introductory courses: 6 credits in History 1, 2, 3, 5, or 10; 6 credits in History 4; and 6 credits in History of Science 1. In addition, 18 credits are required in advanced courses, of which at least 6 must be either in History or in History of Science.

Honors and High Honors in History. Students majoring in history who have a grade-point average of 3.0 or better, and 24 credits in history, may at the end of their junior year enroll for honors in history. They are required to register in small tutorial sections, numbered 150a and b, carrying 3 credits per semester, which meet in weekly two-hour sessions.

The work consists of reports on reading, discussions, and brief research papers. Its purpose is to fill gaps in the student's training in history, to make him acquainted with historical literature not touched on in lecture courses, and to bring his study of history into focus. Regular attendance at these conferences is of primary importance, and three absences result in automatic withdrawal from the course.

For honors in history, the student must have a 3.5 average in his major, including the tutorial course, at the end of his senior year. For high honors, he is required to write a thesis which may be worked on in with assignments for tutorial sections or substituted for them. In addition, the recipient of high honors must have an over-all grade-point average of 3.5.
