This course will introduce students to key themes in the social, political, and cultural history of Europe from the fall of Napoleon to the twenty first century. We will ask how and why Europe came to dominate the world in the nineteenth century and why it lost that dominance in the twentieth. Why did Europe give birth both to models of democracy and social equality but also to dictatorship and terror? Why has Europe been such a laboratory for nationalism and does the emergence of the European Union signal the end of this epoch? These are some of the many questions that we will ask over the course of the semester.

Attendance and participation in weekly discussion sections is mandatory. You must complete all the assigned reading before your weekly section meeting. We expect students to come to section prepared for an in-depth and wide ranging discussion of the issues raised by the class readings. We are not looking for “right” answers but for original thinking on your part. Students are responsible for all the materials presented in lecture. The lectures are not based on the textbook and they offer perspectives and materials that are not available in the readings.

There will be one in class midterm (March 6), one two-hour final examination, and a map quiz that will be given in section. In addition all students are required to write two one page papers on documents and a 5 page paper on an assigned topic due February 20 in class; those who hand in their papers on time will have the option of revising their papers (final draft due March 22). Four credit students will also write a 10 page paper (due April 24) on an assigned topic. Papers will be based on the readings and the lectures and require no outside research (papers based on outside research will not be accepted). Students are urged to familiarize themselves with the rules and guidelines concerning plagiarism -- any cases of plagiarism or cheating will be dealt with severely. Downloading material from the web and claiming it as your own is a form of plagiarism.
Further information on the University’s policies on plagiarism can be found at http://www.wisc.edu/students/conduct/uws14.htm and to learn more about quoting and paraphrasing check the Writing Center’s guidelines at http://www.wisc.edu/writing/Handbook/QuotingSources.html

Grading will be based on the examinations, the papers, as well as your participation in the discussion sections. For 3 credit students exams will count for 40% of your grade, the paper 30%, and discussion 30%. For 4 credit students exams count for 30% of the grade, the papers 40%, and discussion 30%. The discussion grade will be attributed by your TA and will be based on attendance, participation in discussion, the two one-page papers, and the map quiz.

I will hold office hours on Mondays between 1 and 3. You can also speak with me after class or send me an email to set up an alternative meeting time. If you misplace this syllabus, please download a new copy at http://history.wisc.edu/Courses.htm
