Course Description

The emphasis in this lecture course will be on the social, economic and cultural history of Rome. Evidence from the second and first century BC will be included for discussion, but the main focus will be on the more abundant material from the first and second century AD, the period known as the Principate. The first part of the course – week 1 to 8 – will focus on the social and economic structures of the Roman world. The second part – week 9 to 15 – will focus on the people inhabiting the Roman Empire, their social behavior and codes, and their cultural tastes. Weekly reading requirements are compulsory and must be completed before the Tuesday Class. For the discussion sections additional readings will be required, consisting either of primary sources in translation or the opinions and arguments of modern scholars.

Primary sources (in translation):

Secondary Literature:

Attendance, Exams and Grades

Attendance at all classes is mandatory. There will be two midterm exams and one final exam. The midterm exams will be sit-in exams and will be held on the Thursday in the week for which they are programmed. They will count for 40% towards your final grade; the final exam will count for 50%. The remaining 10% is based on regular attendance, class discussion and general participation.
