Contemporary France, 1914 to the Present

This course analyzes key issues in contemporary French history from the outbreak of World War I to the twenty first century. Particular attention will be placed on the interplay between political, social and cultural developments. Topics to be studied include the Great War, the Popular Front, the Vichy Régime, the Liberation and the Fourth Republic, Decolonization, De Gaulle and the Fifth Republic, France and the European Union -- as well as broader themes concerning the changing nature of French society, the disappearance of the peasantry, immigration and citizenship, and transformations in gender roles.

Requirements: Attendance and participation in weekly sections, taught by Terry Peterson, are mandatory. The assigned readings should be completed by each section meeting. Students should come to section prepared for an in-depth and critical discussion of the reading. Honors students, who will be meeting with Mr. Boswell, will have some additional reading and writing assignments. There will be one two hour final examination, one in-class map quiz, and three 1 sentence summaries of arguments due in section. In addition, all students are required to write one five page paper, and two six page papers. Essay topics will be distributed in advance; papers require no outside research and will be based on class readings.

Movies: We will be screening two movies on two Monday evenings (outside of class time). Jean Renoir’s La Grande illusion (Sept 21) and Gillo Pontecorvo’s Battle of Algiers (Nov 16). Mark your calendars!

Credits: This is a 4 credit course. If you signed up for 3 credits, please add an additional credit.

Grading: 25% of your grade will be determined by your participation in section, the one sentence summaries, and the map quiz. Students who rarely come to section will fail this component of the class. The final exam will count for 20% of the grade. The five page paper will be 15% of your grade and each of the 6 page papers will count for 20%.
Plagiarism: We expect you to hand in your own work, and not to borrow sentences or sentence fragments from books, articles, or the web. In other words, all your sentences should be of your own making (if you use more than three successive words from a book, you should put them in quotation marks). You should take the time to familiarize yourself with the University’s policy on plagiarism which is available at: http://students.wisc.edu/saja/misconduct/UWS14.html and check out the Writing Center’s excellent tips of quoting and paraphrasing sources: (http://writing.wisc.edu/Handbook/QPA_plagiarism.html). Students who plagiarize put themselves at risk of failing the class.

Books are available for purchase at the University Bookstore and are also on 3 hour reserve in Helen C. White library. Some of the books have been translated from the French, and those of you with a good knowledge of la langue française may want to read in their original version (copies available at Memorial Library). I have listed weekly readings from the Rod Kedward textbook (France and the French) to enable you to keep up with lectures; by and large, the Kedward readings will not be discussed in section. A short reader will also be available for purchase at the Humanities Copy Center.

I will hold office hours on Tuesday between 4 and 6. You can also speak with me after class or send me an email to set up an alternative meeting time.
