History 359  EUROPE SINCE 1945  MWF 11:00  3 cr.  Mr. Koehl

This is an intermediate level course presupposing some acquaintance with the previous history of Europe, especially in the twentieth century. While there is no prerequisite, History 120, Europe and the Modern World, is suggested as a suitable background. Political and diplomatic history (international relations), along with military affairs, will be accentuated along with economic and social change. Recent changes in Eastern Europe and developments in the European Community will be highlighted. Relations with America and the Third World will also receive emphasis. Comparisons of eastern and western Europe, capitalism, democracy, authoritarianism, socialism, and communism will be made.

For purchase:

READINGS No. 3 FOR HISTORY 359 (KINKO'S)
DePorte, A. W., Europe between the Super-Powers, 2nd ed. (Yale University Press, 1987)
Perestroika, 2nd Annual (Brasseys, USA, 1989)
Pisano, Vittorfranco, The Dynamics of Subversion and Violence in Italy (Hoover Institution Press, Stanford, CA, 1987)

Recommended for non-history majors, and all those who did not take History 120:
Hughes, H. S. Contemporary Europe

For use in Helen White library:
Laqueur Walter Z., Europe since Hitler, 2nd ed. (Penguin, 1982)

Smith, Tony, ed. The End of the European Empire.
Decolonisation after World War II (D.C. Heath, 1975)

Course requirements:
Mid-term and final examination are of equal weight (both two hours long). They each consist of 3 essays and a map exercise. Graduate students will substitute a critical review essay of three related books (3000 words) for the mid-term.
A special research seminar will meet at 9:55 Wednesdays for selected students who wish to register for 1 additional credit of History 699. Students will research topics of their choice and write a paper for presentation to the seminar. Application forms will be available at the first class.
