From Joseph Conrad's Heart of Darkness to the current war in Eastern Congo, Equatorial Africa stands in common Western knowledge as the soft-belly of the Continent: a macro-region of long-standing ethnic rivalries, defeated modernity and collapsing nations. Classic scholarship on Equatorial Africa has emphasized explanations coming from a submission/domination perspective: submission of local societies to a daunting environment; submission of ancient polities to the colonial system; and more recently, domination of civil society by warlords and autocratic regimes.

This lecture will ask you to go beyond this cliché imagery, and to explore the complex history of this region. Recent historiography has recovered the existence of an Equatorial Africa civilization that has survived and innovated for several millenia, while successfully confronting pressures from the Atlantic after 1500. After the colonial conquest at the end of the 19th century, we know better how ordinary people resisted the colonial project, adapted to the challenges of every-day life, and invented the features of modern-times in multiple and intricate ways. Today, at a time of wars and deteriorating economic conditions, flourishing religious movements and vivid popular culture place Equatorial Africa among the most innovative areas of the African continent.
WRITTEN ASSIGNMENTS

- Map quizz (take-home). Due on 09/10. (5%)

- Quizz #1 on course material and readings for weeks 1-5. In class on 10/01. (20%)

- Short Essay on primary sources on Fang. Write a two-page essay (min. 400 words-max. 600 words) comparing BOTH primary sources (Du Chaillu and Milligan) and their views on the Fang. Due in class on 10/22. [NB: all essays are double-spaced] (10%)

- Take Home Essay on History of Cloth. Write a six-page essay (min. 1,500 words-max. 1,800 words) on the history and historiography of cloth in equatorial Africa. The essay consists in a critical discussion about the long-term history of the production and uses of cloth in Equatorial Africa comparing and using three scholarly articles (see list below in reading packet). Your essay should not merely summarize the articles. Instead, it should analyze and discuss the production and uses of cloth in Equatorial Africa over the long term. It should also explain how different authors make different sense of this history, and write it from various perspectives. This will encourage you to adopt a critical eye on “real” events, and on history as an argumentative narrative making sense of the past. A guide sheet will be handed out ahead of time. Due in class on 10/29 [NB: all essays are double-spaced] (30%)

- Quizz # 2 on course material and readings for weeks 9-12. In class on 11/19. (20%)

- Take Home Essay on Emmanual Dongala, Johnny-Mad-Dog. [four-page, double-spaced] Instructions given in class ahead of time. Due in class on 12/10. (15%)

2) CLASS PARTICIPATION:
Students are required to attend all lectures. In addition, there will be periodic discussion sessions during which you will be expected to come to class prepared to discuss the week’s readings and to actively participate in discussion. Both attendance and participation in discussions will be noted and will be taken into account in calculating your final grade.

3) GRADUATE STUDENTS should talk to me early in the semester for specific assignments.

Course Regulations

- Attendance is mandatory. You can miss one class during the semester-- but not one that features an important class-discussion (in bold in the schedule). Two unexcused absences will lower your grade. Four unexcused absences will result in a failing (F) grade.

- No make-ups for being absent, late, or late in turning assignments. Missed exams will only be excused with doctor’s notes or other formal documents.

- Late research papers will be marked down a grade (e.g.: from a “B” to a “C”) for each school day missed, and will not be accepted after three school days after the due date
(thus marked “F”). Papers or exams put under my office door will not be graded. Papers turned late can be put in my mailbox ONLY if signed, dated and timed by administrator at History Department front desk.

- The length of research papers is mandatory. Any paper more than ½ page shorter or longer than the assigned number of pages will be marked down. The police of characters should be no larger than 12, and the margins no wider than 1” (top and bottom), and 1.2” (left and right).

- Written assignments are individual. No collaborative work allowed. If you are unsure about what is considered plagiarism, check with me.
