History 600: Europe: A Continent of Immigrants

This research seminar explores the roots of today’s multicultural and multi-ethnic Europe, and traces the history of immigration (both within Europe and from other parts of the world) over the course of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Why and when did immigrants come to Europe? How has their presence changed the cultural, religious and social landscape, and pushed Europeans to reconsider deeply held notions of national identity? This course will survey the history of recent migrants to Europe – from labor migrations, to colonial and postcolonial migration, to refugees and asylum seekers – and examine how societies have responded to their presence. During the second half of the course, students will be required to write a 20-25 page research paper based on primary and secondary sources.

Requirements: Two short (2 pages) response papers due early in the semester, a 1-2 page research statement of purpose, a detailed bibliography, and a paper outline. The central requirement of the course is a 20-25 page research paper on some aspect of immigration and immigrants in Europe. You will also be required to discuss and critique each others’ first drafts and to make a formal oral presentation to the seminar during the last week of classes. Attendance is required. Please warn me in advance if you will be unable to attend a particular class session. Class participation will be a component of your final grade. Required books are available for purchase at the University Bookstore and are also on 3 hour reserve in College Library. In addition a course reader will be available for purchase at the Humanities Copy Center.

The response papers (weeks 3 and 6) are due in class and are designed to facilitate our discussions. These papers should not be summaries of the readings; rather, you should pick 2 or 3 themes from the readings and “respond” to them in some detail. [Questions you may want to think about: Was the author convincing? If not, why not? Were you struck by the way he/she formulated an argument? Were the arguments original? Surprising? Based on evidence? What kinds of questions are left unanswered?]

Grading:

Final paper: 60%
Class participation: 25%
Short response papers: 15%
