

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-MADISON
Department of History
Spring 1992

COURSE NO.	COURSE TITLE	INSTRUCTOR
432	History of Scandinavia since 1809	Mr. Hamalainen

COURSE DESCRIPTION

History 432 explores major social, political, economic and cultural trends in the Scandinavian countries (Norden) in the 19th and 20th centuries starting with the breakup of the Swedo-Finnish and the Dano-Norwegian states and the emergence of Finland and Norway as autonomous political entities in association respectively with Russia.

There will be an effort to discuss the historical institutions, structures, and developments in the Nordic countries within a comparative framework. This approach should clarify those features which are common to Nordic history as a whole as well as serve the purpose of emphasizing the more unique aspects of the evolution of the different northern societies. The relationship of significant characteristics of the Nordic experience to general European history will also be explored.

LECTURES

Lectures two times per week.

WRITTEN ASSIGNMENTS and EXAMINATIONS

The undergraduates are expected to write two book reviews and the graduate students five book reviews based on supplementary reading. Both the mid-term and final examinations will consist of essay questions. The mid-term examination is optional, but if a student chooses to take it the examination counts toward the course grade.

GRADING SYSTEM

The course grade is largely decided by the results of the examinations - if the student chooses to take the mid-term examination it will count for about 30% of the course grade. The book reviews can swing the course grade in borderline cases.

REQUIRED READINGS

Appropriate sections of the works mentioned below will be required reading for all students in the class. In addition there will be supplementary reading which the students can choose from a book list furnished by the instructor.

T.K. Derry, A History of Scandinavia, 1979.

Henrik S. Nissen, ed., Scandinavia during the Second World War, 1983.

Following topics will be discussed in the lectures:

Introductory comments	Failing security arrangements and
Political and territorial realignments	the eve of the Second World War
Old and new political institutions	The Finno-Russian Winter War
Problems of nationalism	German occupation of Denmark and
Romanticism and nationalism	Norway
Cultural nationalism in Finland	Postwar reconstruction and search
Cultural nationalism in Norway	for security
The Schleswig-Holstein problem	Political realignments
Pan-Scandinavianism	Norway and Denmark in NATO
Agrarian and demographic problems	Swedish neutrality
Emigration	The Finno-Soviet relationship
The process of industrialization	Nordic cooperation
Rise of liberalism	Scandinavia, EFTA and EEC
Rise of the Social Democratic movements	Nordic Welfare Societies
Cultural national romanticism
The democratic breakthrough
Independence struggles and social conflict
The Finnish Revolution and Civil War and its heritage
Territorial disputes
Ethnic conflict in Finland
The depression
Evolution of welfare states	